Course Description:

Multiparty elections have become a truly universal phenomenon as more than 90% of countries worldwide hold periodic elections for top-office holders. However, there is substantial cross-national and cross-time variation in the institutional rules that influence who runs for office, who votes, when elections are held, how votes are counted, and who is responsible for counting votes. The global proliferation of elections has also raised concerns about the democratic quality of elections and what shapes mass perceptions of electoral legitimacy. Political elites, especially incumbents, have utilized several manipulative techniques such as ballot fraud, violence against opponents, manipulation of electoral authorities, and the abuse of government resources during campaigns all in the name of electoral expediency. Meanwhile, there have been several international and domestic efforts such as the use of international observers and the creation of independent electoral commissions that have been championed as a way to safeguard electoral integrity. Finally, while most scholars agree that free and fair elections are a necessary condition for countries to be considered democratic, there is less consensus about the value of elections for regime processes and norms such as democratic consolidation and democratic legitimacy.

This course introduces students to the comparative study of multiparty elections and electoral processes in multiple world regions. The course is divided into four main sections. Section 1 explores institutional rules that influence electoral competition and electoral governance and how these rules shape some of the things we care about including accountability and representation. Section 2 examines key stages in the electoral process and the factors that shape political behavior during these stages. Section 3 focuses on the quality and legitimacy of elections by highlighting different forms of manipulation and efforts by domestic and international actors to promote electoral integrity. Section 4 considers the value of elections for democratic norms and process. The course incorporates a variety of learning materials and collaborative-learning methods that expose students to dominant theoretical and methodological approaches in comparative politics and political science.

Student Learning Objectives

At the end of the course, students should be able to

- identify different types of rules which influence electoral competition and governance
- describe different stages of the electoral process and identify factors shaping elite and mass behavior

- describe different approaches for evaluating the quality and legitimacy of elections.
- identify dominant theoretical approaches for explaining the impact of elections on regime processes and norms.

Required Texts:

- Cheeseman, N., & Klaas, B. (2018). How to rig an election. Yale University Press.
- Flores, T. E., & Nooruddin, I. (2016). Elections in hard times: Building stronger democracies in the 21st century. Cambridge University Press.
- Schedler, A. (2006). Electoral authoritarianism: The dynamics of unfree competition. Lynne Rienner.

Canvas Course Website:

Canvas will serve as a repository for course materials, this includes

- Updated copies of the syllabus
- Assigned readings not contained in required texts
- Additional reading list
- Internet and electronic resources on Democratization
- Midterm and final exam study guides and group presentation guidelines.

Course Requirements and Assignments:

- Class Participation & Attendance (10%)
- Midterm Exam (40%): The midterm will be held in class on Tuesday, October 18. A review for the Midterm will be held in class on Thursday, October 13.
- Final Exam (40%): The final will be held during Final Exam Period on Thursday, December 15: 5:30-7:30P and a review for the Final on Thursday December 1.
- Pop Quizzes/in-class assignments (10%): At least one pop quiz/in-class assignment will be given each week. To prepare students simply have to complete all the assigned readings for the day.

Grading Scale:

Each grade that you earn for assignments will be based on the weightings indicated above. Your final grade will be converted based on the following scale:

A: 93-100		A-: 90-92
B+: 87-89	B: 83-86	B-: 80-82
C+: 77-79	C: 73-76	C-: 70-72
D+: 67-69	D: 63-66	D-: 60-62

Policies on Cheating and Plagiarism

UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states, “We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: “On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.”

The Honor Code (<http://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honorcode/>) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor.

Policies on Late Assignments, Make-up Exams, & Contact

- Assignment extensions will only be offered under extenuating circumstances. Late assignments submitted without a valid extension will be penalized as per my discretion.
- Make-up exams will only be arranged for university-accepted excuses.
- When contacting me by email please utilize standard grammar and punctuation. In most instances, I will do my best to respond to emails within 24 hours.

Policies for Persons with Disabilities

Students with disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565, www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter which must be presented to the instructor when requesting accommodation. Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester.

A student with an increased risk for severe illness from COVID-19, as determined by the CDC, can register with the Disability Resource Center to request a temporary course modification and/or academic accommodation. The student will need to provide medical documentation that identifies their diagnosis and their medical provider’s concerns related to possible COVID-19 exposure. Students should be mindful that remote course access is not always a feasible modification for every course. The DRC will work in partnership with the student’s instructor to determine a reasonable modification that meets the course requirements while considering the student’s concerns for exposure. Students can begin the process to register with the DRC by completing the form located on the DRC website. For questions, please contact the DRC at 352-392-8565 or drc@ufsa.ufl.edu

Course Evaluations

Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing online evaluations at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu>. Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results/>.

Policies on In-Class Recordings

Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor. A “class lecture” is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session. Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040.
